DELAY FOR TREATY

Senators Regard the Arbitration Document with Apathy.

FEW HAVE GIVEN IT ANY THOUGHT

Members of the Foreign Affairs Committee Believe England Gets the Better of the United States---Will Probably Be Left for McKinley.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The matter of the ratification of the general arbitration treaty with England is not likely to come up formally before the next regular meeting of the committee on foreign relations, on Wednesday. Opinion, so far as congress is concerned atleast, is in such a state that to obtain anything like a correct estimate of the sentiment of the senate is at this time impossible. One thing however, can now be stated as a fact, and that is that the treaty is regarded with extreme indifference in congress. considering the interest it has excited outside of Washington. With the exception of a few senators, chiefly the members of the foreign relations committee, who have an especial interest in the question, the treaty is not being discused at all and there are not ten men in the senate who will say that they are possessed of sufficient knowledge of the subject to make their opinion of the merits of the instrument of the slightest value. These senators are, however, well informed enough to discuss the probability of the ratification of the treaty. There can be no doubt that the members of the committee on foreign relations are as a rule impressed with the idea that England gets the better of the United States under the treaty; at least the fear that she might do so is sufficiently great to warrant the most painstaking scruting before any report is made upon it. There are the best reasons for believing that one of the things discussed by President-elect McKinley and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts at Canton was the arbitration treaty. Senator Lodge, one of the most active members of the foreign relations committee, is inclined to the opinion that the United States have little to be thankful for in the fact that the general principle of arbitration has been recognized by the great governments of England and the United States, or in the terms of this particular treaty. Judging from what can be learned by talking with sena-tors there is little likelihood that the treaty can be ratified at this session. Some of the leading republicans say: "McKinley is the man to say whether or not that treaty shall be ratified. It should be left to his administration to determine." This is probably what will be done, if Major McKinley so advises. Sherman as the next secretary of state will be responsible for the foreign policy of the Mc-

HER ALIMONY STOPPED.

Mrs. Southworth's Remarriage Relieves Her Former Millioneire Husband.

Boston, Jan. 16.-A notable case came up in the superior court in this city yesterday when Horatio W. Southworth, the Springfield millionaire paper manufacturer, now resident in New York city, appeared as petitioner before Judge Lilley to have the alimony which was awarded to his former wife in 1890 discontinued on the ground of her remarriage. The marriage was not disputed by the counsel for the respondent, but it was claimed that this was not in itself sufficient to furnish grounds for withdrawing the alimony. Judge Lilley gave his decision in favor of the petitioner, but reported the case to the supreme court, where it will probably be heard in March. There is thought to be little doubt that the ruling in the lower court will be sustained. This decision practically terminates in Mr. Southworth's favor the long continued litigation between these parties which has been in the courts of this state for the past eight

The Gains Now Being Made Are Slow, But Solid and Lasting.

NO CRAZY EXCITEMENT APPARENT!

Deliberate Judgment of the Ablest and Most Prudent Men in Business Control the Situation-Prices Not Forced Up.

New York, Jan. 16.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just ending will, to-day, say: The greatest growth and prospertity the country had ever seen came suddenly in 1879, after several months of disappointment because specie resumption had not yet brought the benefits expected. It is not the largest and most powerful vessel that can be started most quickly, and it takes time for new confidence to reach, through easier money markets, larger orders, resuming mills, expanding employment, and larger distribution, to the results which make still greater and lasting gains possible. Such gradual and steady improvement has been in progress for more than two months. The output of pig iron has gained 12.3 per cent. in December and 41.6 per cent. since October 1. The output of coke has increased 88.7 per cent. since October 1. Sales of wool have again become large, though not yet fully developed. Money markets feel a steady increase in demand for commercial and manufacturing loans. Additional works have gone into operation each week in January, and the working force is larger than at any other time for six months. Best of all, there is so little crazy excitement that the gain may be ascribed to the deliberate judgment of the ablest and most prudent men in business.

Not a Time of High Prices.

It is not a time of high prices. Natural and lasting growth does not begin, as the flurry did in 1895, by forcing up prices without regard to the consuming demand. The lowest general average of prices in 1879, the lowest for ten years after the panic of 1873, came several months after solid improvement had begun. Many who are zoxious to get early hold of the markets are making for the moment lower prices than they could afford to maintain. Some have secured orders enough for months to come, and begin to be less keen in competition. With the increase in output of pig iron to 159,720 tons weekly against 142,278 last month, the price is a shade lower at the east and Chicago, but heavy purchases already advance Bessemer a shade at Pittsburg. A sale of 10,000 tons Tennessee No. 4 for export will yield only $6.87 1-3 at the mill, and the shipment of 2,000 tons billets to Manchester will yield only $15 at Pittsburg. Steel bars have been reduced to I cent and some other finished products $1 per ton, but the demand, is on the whole, steadily growing. The coke output has risen from 50,000 to 94,342 tons weekly, and minor metals are a shade stronger. Cotton, print cloths. boots and shoes, leather and hides, etc., do not show as yet any very encouraging signs, but men in those lines of busines are hopeful.

The Money Market.

The money market has been disturbed by a combination of large bankers not to lend on call below 2 per cent., which invited all sorts of financial institutions to take the market, caused payment of bank loans for some millions. and left supplies of funds so heavy that time loans were sharply marked down. More was done in commercial paper, though offerings increased but moderately. Receipts from the interior exceeded shipments by $1,500,000. Exports continue to exceed last year's for the week 8 per cent., while imports fell 10 per cent, below last year's. December exports of principal products, showing an increase of $16,282,054, give further assurance that the $40,000,000 of hoarded exchange, some of which London is trying to renew, will not soon be exhausted in preventing gold exports.

TRADE IMPROVEMENT | REFORMS FOR CUBA

Rumored Action of Spanish Cabinet Confirmed at Madrid.

TO GO INTO EFFECT IMMEDIATELY

Spaniards Looking with Impatience and Anxiety to the Effect the Reforms Will Have in America-Sanguilly May Go Free.

London, Jan. 16.—The Madrid corre spondent of the Standard confirms the statement that the Spanish government has decided to immediately effect reforms in Cuba. It is added that the government, in taking such a serious step on the eve of Mr. McKinley's advent to office, wishes to clearly indicate that it acted spontaneously in going even beyond the powers voted by the cortes, for which the latter must grant a bill of indemnity. The reforms will show to what extent the government is prepared to go in gradually preparing the colonies for autonomy, without yielding the rights of Spain and parliament. It will also soon be seen that Spain is disposed to make sacrifices in connection with the Cuban budget. The reforms will not be realized without seriously clashing with Spain's material interests. Spaniards look with impatience and anxiety to the effect the reforms will have in America. The reforms are to be introduced immediately, and a decree putting them into effect will be published on the king's fete day. The dispatch also says it is probable that Julio Sanguilly, the naturalized American citizen recently sentenced in Havana to life imprisonment for conspiracy against the Spanish government, will be granted a free pardon.

Solamos reports that his column has had a series of encounters with various parties of rebels at and in the vicinity of Caunao. near Santa Clara, in which the rebels were each time dispersed, leaving an aggregate of thirty-two of their dead on the field. MINISTER WILLIS' DEATH. The News Received in Washington with

Washington, Jan. 16.-The news of the death of Minister Willis, which occurred at Honolulu on the 6th instant, of pneumonia, was received at the White House and state department with the greatest sorrow. His remains were to leave Honolulu on the 13th inst. and they will be laid to their final rest at Louisville, Ky., his former home. Canton, O., Jan. 16.—The dispatch lieved by many politicians at the state capital that Governor Bushnell will call the general assembly in special session after Senator Sherman's resignation is received to choose the latter's successor, and that it is believed that Fovernor Bushnell can have Senator Sherman's seat if he desires, is being discussed here with much interest. It s known that Governor Bushnell is anxious to go to the senate and that he is B political opponent of Chairman Hanna. Nevertheless, there is no doubt that he fully understood that it is Major McKinley's desire that Mr. Hanna be given the senatorship. It was intimated some time ago that Senator Sherman was holding back his. acceptance of the secretary of state portfolio until the governor's assurance was obtained that he would appoint Mr. Hanna to fill Senator Sherman's unexpired term. While it is understood that Governor Bushnell was not approached in the matter, Major McKiniev and Senator Sherman fully believe that the governor will not oppose their wishes in this respect and that Mr. Hanna will be appointed to succeed

Senator Sherman.

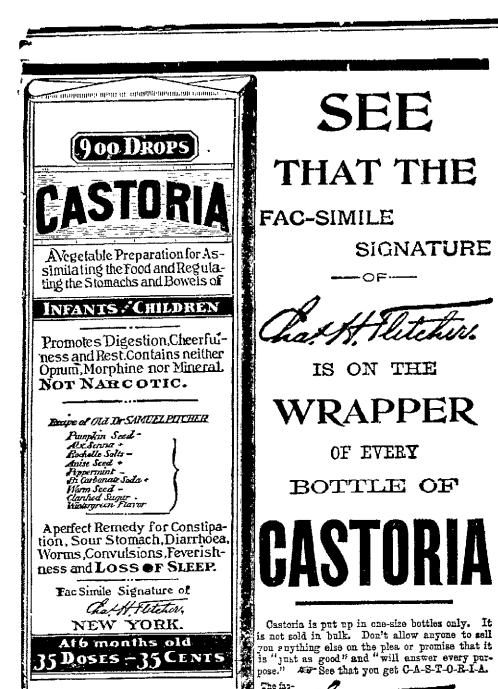

President-elect McKinley has made his wants known relative to how he wishes to go to Washington. His mother, wife, brother and nieces will accompany him. On account of the age of his mother, Mr. McKinley has made a special request of the Pennsylvania company that the train bearing the presidential party to Washington will run on a slow schedule, in order. not to have too great a strain on the bid lady. Mr. McKinley has requested! that if possible-the special, train leave; Canton at 3 p. m. on the afternoon of March 1, and the running time be arranged so that the train will arrive in Washington about 11 a. m. March 2. Major McKinley's escort will leave about four or five hours ahead of the presidential train, in order that the former may arrive in Washington in lime to get off the dust of travel and make a presentable appearance when. they escort McKinley from the depote lo the Ebbitt house, where his quarers have been engaged. Chairman, Hanna will leave Cleveland for Washington two or three days before Mc-Kinley, and will be on hand to ride with him to the latter's notel. The mfantry escort, the Eighth regiment, will leave Canton four hours ahead of McKinley on a special train, while the l'leveland troop will do the same thing st Cleveland, both arriving in Wash-, ington about the same time. McKin-i ley's train will consist of two private ears, one of which will be used by himself and family; two sleeping cars, one baggage car, a dining car and a car for the transportation of the committee and newspaper correspondents. Senator Sherman's Visit.

Senator Sherman, who just before ais depature yesterday afternoon authorized the United Associated Presses to positively announce that he has actepted the portfolio of state, said he had a long talk with Major McKinley and that they discussed many men and measures. The formation of the cabiact was the main topic of conversation. Fenator Sherman said appointments and the organization of the work in his Repartment would not be considered antil after the inauguration of Major McKinley. It is understood that the appointment of a first assistant secrelary of state was not discussed, but the gossips have it that John Russell Young of Philadelphia is under conpideration. Senator Sherman was in excellent spirits and seemed full of rigor. The visit of ex-Governor Long so closely upon that of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts is construed to mean; that he is not unwilling to accept a place in Major McKinley's cabinet.

Urging Alger's Claims.

Senator J. C. Burrows of Michigan tame to see the president-elect in the Interests of Gen. Alger, whom he hopes will be appointed secretary of war, Senator Burrows said the republicans of Michigan had counted upon Gen. Alger, and that he had the hearty enkorsement of the two Senators. Gen. Alger is also being urged by the old foldiers of the union armies. Senator Burrows did not indicate that the portfolio had been tendered Gen. Alger, but the belief is pretty strong here that it will be. The differences that existed between Senator Sherman and Gen. Alger have been happily adjusted and form no obstacle whatsoever to the appointment of Gen. Alger to the cabinet. This is stated upon high authority. Representative R. B. Mahany of Buffalo and John Milholland of New York city, who is said to be a candidate for collector of the port, were among Major McKinley's callers.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria,

PILGRIMS IN BURMAH.

They Mix Devotion Most Liberally with Recreation.

Experience of a Western Traveler Who Attended a Pilgrimage to a famous Pagoda-Religious Rites End in General Merry-Making.

[Special Mandalay (Burmah) Letter] The best way to study the Burmese, their religion, manners and customs is to attend one of the pigrimages to a pagoda. That word pagoda comes from the Sanscrit "dhagoba" and means a sacred structure. Burmah is a land of pagodas. One sees them everywhere, the number exceeding those of Japan, Ceylon or Tibet. There is no hill-top so steep and rocky, or so covered with jungle, as to prevent the snow-white spire rising up like the church steeple of Christian lands to guard the locality from evil "naths" (demons) and to remind the people of the Lord Gaudama, the apostle and founder of Buddhism. Sometimes the "payah" or pagoda is erected over a sacred relic such as a hair, a finger nail, or, perhaps, a shred of cloth belonging to Gaudama or one of his tollowers. In this case the place is especially revered and at intervals, once or twice a year at least, the religiously inclined assemble there from the hamlets and villages within a radius of from ten to fifty miles. As everybody in Burmah is religious these pilgrimages are always well attended.

Among the Buddhists religion and amusement go hand in hand, and the pilgrimage is no exception to this general rule being made a regular picnic in which the people join with much zest and earnestness.

Leaving Moulmein, one of the large seaside cities, at three a. m., we commenced the pilgrimage to Toung-Wyne, some 26 miles distant, the vehicle being a "hlay," or ox cart. Our team was very gentle and easily managed, and did the distance in about eight hours. No extra prodding on the part of the "loobyo" who drove the milk-white steers had the slightest effect on those bo-of these "tse-lay" is to make one feel as if he had swallowed an election bonfire. The Burmese smoke them with zest-men, women and children. It is an everyday sight to see the unweaned child taking a few pulls at his mother's cheroot, alternating the smoke with a pull at the maternal breast. When Mah Himoay has had her smoke for a few minutes she puts the torch into the hole in the lobe of one of her ears. These holes are of varying size, oftentimes wide enough to admit a pendant half an inch in diameter.

The large umbrella at the rear of our decorated cart is peculiarly Burmese. It is made of heavy Chinese paper (China is Burmah's neighbor on the northeast), which is lacquered and oiled until it is as tough and durable as leather. The stick and ribs are of bamboo and the ribs are interlaced with a very pretty network of scarlet, yellow and blue silk. Properly used, the Burmese "htee," as the umbrella is called, will last a lifetime, and it is as useful in sunshine as in rain. No native man or woman is properly equipped for a journey of a mile or more without his or her umbrella. Persons of rank or wealth and high priests ("poongyse") have their "htee" carried by servants. The Burmese equivalent for the word "disciple," as used in the Bible, is "Htee-byee-daw," literally "the man-who-carries-the-umbiella," and was so used in translating the Bible into Burmese by the learned American missionary, Rev. Dr. Mason.

The longest journey must end some time, and so does this to Toung-Wyne, for as we slowly emerge from the depths of the jungle shade into the blazing glare of the tropical noon the tapering spire of the famous "Payah" is right before us, an alto relievo, as it were, against the whitish blue sky. The pagoda proper rises about 150 feet from its square basement of solid masonry. Commencing from this basement as a six-sided cone, it gradually tapers into a spire of white plaster (called throughout the East Indies "chumam," which is as hard as hydraulic cement) covered with a triple circle or tiara of bells, which, hanging times, and we made up our minds to take $_{

m I}$ loosely, chime musically to every pass t as easily as possible—though it was ! not so easy on the bones of the unused cent of springs. The hlay used for such journeys and for processions on festival days is always gayly carved and otherwise adorned with gilded figures of good Naths or even with an image of the Lord Buddha, as in our case, occupying the place of honor on the end of the bamboo pole between the heads of the oxen. Also, those easygoing animals were adorned with belts or strings of bells which jingled melodiously at every step.

former had 116 verses. It was supposed to relate the history of two pious young men in an ox eart, though we marveled, as they king, how anyone could feel pious while riding in an ox-cart.

Then the ladies, like their Caucasian sisters, gossip about their household affairs, their husbands and lovers. The "Kulla-pyoo" (white stranger) is told of the characteristics of birthdays, according to Burmese fancy. Monday's child will be jealous; Tuesday's, hon-Wednesday's, short-tempered; Thursday's, mild; Friday's, talkative; Saturday's, quarrelsome, and Sunday's, stingy and close. Thereupon, the White Stranger says he thinks his fellow-paslengers were all born on Friday.

Now and then eigars are handed around and everybody smokes cheroots 12 to 15 inches long. These "torches" would astonish an American cigar. maker. The wrapper is a smooth strip of paim leaf, and the filler is made of a light tobacco, like golden-leafed Virginia, which is chopped up with rather large grains of sugar and a little tea. The artist who would parnt this picture would necessarily use the brightest colors only, white linen jackets for the men with kilts ("paysoh" is the Burmese word, meaning skirt) of home-woven silk, of every color of the rainbow. In addition to the coat or jacket of white cloth the woman wears a bodice of turkey-red and the skirt or "th'mine" is of heavy silk, just as bright, though not so wide as the manly garment.

Campfires are lighted and the midday meal of rice and curry is being cooked, the rice boiled so light that each particular grain looks like a flake of snow when it is done. As for curry. rich with its wealth of ginger, capsicum, coriander, turmeric and cocoanut shreds used as a bath for meat, fish and vegetables, the White Stranger's mouth must be acclimated to its fierce heat. After his first few attempts to eat rice and curry, which is the national dish of some 500,000,000 of her Britannie majesty's subjects, he will go around with his mouth open like a chicken with the gapes, sucking into his parched throat the cool breath of heaven. Another favorite dish is "ngapee," which is made of fish, beaten into a paste, after it has decomposed. It is mingled with spices and red pepper, which adds to its biting quality, but does not detract from its odor, which is of the most violent and uncompromising character. But one gets to be fond of it, although it is strictly an acquired

After dinner the young men "go in" for fun. "Chin-lohn" is the national ball game. A hollow wicker or basketwork ball about the size of a large orange is kept flying inside the circle of 20 or 30 players. You may hit the ball with your knees, shoulder, feet, thighs or cheeks, but you are "out" if you touch it with your hand or let it fall to the ground. Chin-lohn requires great dexterity and the players must tuck their flowing skirts tightly around their loins, leaving their legs bare except for the tattooing in red, blue and black which is arabesqued on the coppercolored skin of every man in Burmah as soon as he attains the virile age.

As the sun goes down the pilgrims repair to the shrine of Buddha in the temple adjoining the pagoda to assist in chanting the praises of the great reformer, which are led by the yellowrobed poongyee.

After dark a myriad torches and oil flambeaus light up the strange scene until the full moon adds her marvelous light to the effect, for all pilgrimages are made when no rain is expected for

Some of the Musical Features of This Most Successful Comedy.

Charles Hoyt's success of three continents, "A Trip to Chinatown" with Laura Bigger as the Widow and Burt Haverly as Welland Strong will be the attraction at the Casino next Monday evening. Miss Bigger and Mr. Haverly assumed the leading roles in Mr. Hoyt's "inusical trifle" in the company which during the World's Fair year played to more money than has ever been taken in during one season by any of Hoyt's comedies, either before or since that time. All that is merry and tuneful, including the "Bowery," is still there, but there are also many new musical numbers including "She Always Dressed in Black," "Put me Off at Buffalo," "Lucky Jim." "Her First Waltz." "The Bells." "The Swell of the Day." "Jusque-La." "Move Up Johnson" and a coster duet styled "A La Chevalier," sung by Miss Bigger and Mr. Haverly. Others in the east are Ernest Elton, Richard Karl, Gus-Thomas, John P. Brown, Benj. Leffier. Jeannettee Lilford, Maud Bagley, Isabelle Chamberlain and Rose Sutherland.

DAILY ARGUS.

SATURDAY, JAN. 16, 1897.

C. MACARDELL, JR., PUBLISHER.

GEORGE H. THOMPSOY J. F. ROI INSON, A. E. NICKINSON, CITY EDITORS.

Senator Sherman as Secretary of State will not please the jingoes. He is already on record as favoring a conservative policy in foreign affairs, and said, yesterday, that he did not think this country should interfere between Spain and the Cubans, nor should it attempt to determine the nature of the concessions Spain should make in order to secure peace.

Senator Sherman will be McKinley's Secretary of State. He publicly aunounced his acceptance of the place yesterday. He will resign from the Senate at an early day. Senator Foraker is at pains to declare that no agreement has been made with Gov. Bushnell as to the appointment of Sherman's successor, but it is a moral certainity that Mark Hanna will get the place.

The report of the Commissioner of Internal Rsvenue shows that 218,874 retail liquor dealers paid the federal government's special tax last year. This is a decrease of four percent from the preceding year. In the Probibition States, Maine, New Hampshiere, Vermont. Kansas. North Dakota and South Dakota, 7,740 persons paid the special tax, three-and-ahalf per cent less than in 1895. These figures are of interest as they show not only that Prohibition does not prohibit, but also that the non-Prohibition States are going dry one-bali of one per cent. faster than those in which Prohibition is supposed to be in

SPEIDEL KILLED HIMSELF.

A Verdict of Snicide Rendered by the Coroner's Jury.

The Splidel inquest was concluded. yesterday, the jury rendering a verdict of death by suicide.

The testimony offered at yesterday's hearing was unimportant except in one respect. Mrs. Laux, wife of the man for whom Speidel worked, testified that she gave him the black kid gloves found near the body. She found half a red handkerchief in his overalls pocket. It was like the piece stuffed in l is mouth when his body was found.

Mrs. Martin Speidel, mother of the dead man, testified that her son wore a dark grey overcoat, not a light grey one. as the Middletown witnesses had testified, and did not have a dark brown moustache as they also testified.

The last witness examined was Dr. could produce suffocation by producing | preserve peace with foreign nations. spasm of the glottis. If a person satur ated a handkerchief with chloroform and stuffed it into his mouth and held it close under his nose it would produce strangulation. This would show the same symptoms on the face as though a person's hands had been pressed against that when strangulation is caused by a | spent there. The interment will be at pressure against the throat by any Burlingham. means.

"The amount of chloroform necessary to produce death varies. It a person would take an onnee of chloroform on a handkerchiet in the mouth and inhale suddenly at the same time it might produce death in a very short time. The symptoms might vary a little from those revealed in the post mortem examination of Speidel's body."

Dr Lambert testified further that it would be possible for a person in the open are to cause his own death by means. of an oance of chlorotorm used on a handkerelnel pressed into his mouth and against his nostrils. The conditions tound in Speidel's body did not necessurily indicate that he had been strangled by other means than chlorotorm. Witness from hearing the results of the post mortem as stated by Drs. Swartwout and Cuddebnek was not prepared to state the cause of death.

The verdict is thought by most, people faminar with the case to be the only one that the jury could have rendered, but there are many Port Jervis people who stoutly hold to the beher that the young man was mindered.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 16,-Two receivers have been appointed for the Wheeling and Lake Eric Railway. The amount involved is about $19,000,000.

The president of the company says its difficulties result chiefly from the extremely low rates in bituminous coultraffic which comprises more than half half the roads tonnage. The demorilazation in rates has been without precedent. The decrease in its iron ore tonnage is also a large factor.

Hon, Joel T. Headley.

Joel T. Headley, the well known historian died, this morning, at his home in

New burgh, aged eighty-three years. He was a native of Walden and after graduating from Union College in 1839. took a course of theology at Audover Theological Seminary. He became pastor of a church at Stockbridge, Mass. but soon found that his health was not equal to pastoral work and he was compelled to relinquish his chosen vocation.

While traveling in Europe in the hope of regaining his health he contributed a number of articles to the press and periodicals which were so well received that he was encouraged to offer to the public "Letters from Italy." It was unexpectedly successful and on his return he was offered by his triend, Horace Greeley, the position or assistant editor of the New York Tribune. The contining duties of newspaper work soon became irksome to him, however, and at the end of the year he severed his connection with the paper and devoted himself entirely to literary pursuits.

In 1846 "Napoleon and Hu Marshals" appeared, and was followed at various periods by "Washington and His Generals," "History of the War of 1812," "Life of Scott and Jackson," "Sacred Mountains," Sacred Scenes and Charac ters," "Sacred Herces and Martyrs," 'Headley's Miscellames," . The Imperial Guard," Chaplains and Clergy of the Revolution," "The Great Rebellion." 'Grant and Sherman,'" Life of Farragut and Our Naval Commanders," and "History of the Great Riots," besides other works of lesser note.

Mr. Headley's literary work suffered a few years' interruption when, in 1854,he was elected to the New York Aassembly from the First District of Orange county, and the following year was chosen Secretary of State of New York, Mr. Headley did not lay down his busy pen until late in life, and the popular favor waich was accorded him at the outset of his career never entirely left him, and all his books were remunerative.

For over thirty years Mr. Headley resided in Newburgh and its vicinity and was actively identified with its interests. He was for many years president of the trustees of Washington's Headquarters and to him is accorded the credit of conceiving and carrying out the Newburgh centennial celebration in 1883,

THAT BEAR HUNT.

Another Bay Spent in Search But Neither Bear Nor Bear Track Discovered-The Alleged Bear Said to be a Big Dog.

A large number of sportsmen spent all day yesterday in beating the bush in Bear Swamp, between Purdy's Station and Winterton, looking for the bear that Conductor Close and his train crew claim Barnes says he shot at four times on Thursday, but not one of them saw the bear, and although sufficient snow had fallen the previous night to make good tracking, not a print of bruin's toot was

The party was early on the grounds and started in at the alleged point the alleged bear disappeared over the hill when Mr. Barnes fired his last shot the day before and they tramped through the br. sh all day looking for tracks and listening for the baying of the hounds that had been sent into the swamp and bags. it was only when darkness came on that they gave up the hopeless "chase."

Sergeant Wilson, a bear hunter of experience, started out with dog and rifle, and if there had been a bear anywhere in the neighborhood he would probably have found it. He says the swamp in which it is alleged broin wasseen browsing is enclosed by a barbed wire fence. the wires being so close together that he had to tear off a wire to let his dog pass into the enclosure, and he can't understand how a bear could get through the fence. Some of the amateur hunters say, however, that bruin could easily have climbed a tree and swung himself over the fence from a branch and got out in the

Some people insinuate that there was no bear in the swamp at all, and that the animal seen by the railroad men and shot at by the Recorder-elect was a big doubtless disfigure his face for life. black dog that had probably chased a rabbit into the brush, or a black cali that was amusing itself and appeasing its hunger by chewing the tender branches of the bushes.

A resident of Winterton says that the alleged bear is a valuable dog belonging to a resident of that locality and that if he falls a victim to the rifles of the Middletown sportsmen it will cost them several hundred dollars to settle.

As against all this however, we have the word of Alderman Close and Recorder elect Barnes that the animal is a bear and a big one too. It is unfortunate Mr. Barnes's aim was not better so that he could prove to the doubting Thomases that he knows a bear from a dog or a cali.

The difference in the sentences imposed on the young men arose from the fact that the Matthews boys used a horse and wagon to cart their coal away, and had been convicted, on previous oceasions, of the same offense, while the others were first offenders and were satisfied with what they could carry away in

DECEIVER EVER.

BY GWENDOLEN OVERTON.

Carey Churchill Carter Channing, first lieutenant, Ath cavalry, died so long ago that most of his story is forgotten, though it was a very great wonier at the time. Everybody connected with it is dead also-his mother and the other two women-and so many first heutenants have filled his place omee then that no one's heart is likely to be wounded by repeating it.

He was a superb great fellow-as all the men in his regiment were said to be in those days-of the big, blonde, and brave type, knowing neither fear nor Yallure, and his fascination was something that has become a tradition in the service. So many girls-aye, and married women, too-had loved him that the shores upon which he had touched were strewn with wrecks.

The hearts of all those women had peen broken, actually broken, not just dented a little, as is usually the case in such affairs; their ives were openly ruined, yet Channing kept nimself free of blame. Not one could say "he should have done thus or so," he never committed himself, he vever acted in a compromising fashion n the presence of a third person. But the women who ran insanely onto the lesert of disillusion, followed the elusve pillars of the smoke of his words and the fire of his looks, never again passed beyond into the land of content across the wilderness. They despised themselves in that pitiful fashion that women have, but they loved him alwaysor such is the way of their kind.

It had been his good fortune to have icalings only with women who either hought of him alone, forgetting themserves, or with those too gentle to denounce him. Then, too, he had managed well; there was never any definite proof. But in the early summer of '85, the pitcher that had been carried ninety-nine times to the well narrowly escaped being broken.

The bride of Capt. Morton, having een fit, with due encouragement, to full in love with him, threatened to become unmanageable. She was a most wonderfully attractive, feminine little thing, but she was neither of the selfmmolating nor of the concealing sort. Having lost her heart, she lost ber head. and Channing was in much danger of having his methods exposed.

His captain advised him: "Channing, ou'd better take a leave and get out for a bit." "Why?

"Well, it's a delicate subject, but Morton's an old friend of mine, and I don't want to see his wife disgrace

"But what have I done? I am as innocent as a baby; and besides I think you are mistaken."

"We all exonerate you. It's not your fault; but I am not mistaken. It's evilent to the whole post. Take my advice and go see your mother like a dutiful son.

Channing was flattered, but he was also frightened; nevertheless, he was undecided.

There was a hop there that same night Mrs. Morton was there, and it was her actions that determined Channing to take Capt. Lytton's counsel. the was already in the hoproom talking to the latter when Channing appeared. and the moment she saw him, standing tall and graceful and indifferent in the doorway, she grew so white that the · hole room noticed it, and she trem-Hed visibly. She realized her paleness and knew that Capt, Lytton's quick movement to put himself between her rd the watching eyes had been una-

She was a Veginian, of the conventional poor but moud order, and she fixed on what had once been the kitchen-garden of the family estate. Quite as often as not she was on the point of hunger, when there was no demand for the needle work of her quivering old fingers. Her on did not contribute to her support. expected himself to do-and she, being completely fascinated, consented without even a decent amount of hesitation. It was arranged that in the late fall she should join Channing at the town nearest his post, and there be married. In September, the unhappy Mrs. Morton having gone hopelessly away to another garrison, the lieutenant rejoined uis regiment. He mentioned the fact of his engagement to no one, but proseeded promptly to lure on another Noman, a girl of gorgeous beauty, a hotblooded brunette, with the eyes of a Inel, the brow of a Madonna, and a ensitive, well-made mouth. She was the only daughter of Col. Ross, motherless, and betrothed to one Lieut. Hawhorne, who had loved her since they and been babies making mud-pies together on the sun-blasted parade-ground of Camp Thomas. She broke her engagement, and she broke young Hawthorne's heart; but her own turn was to come.

In November, giving way ungraciously enough to Anna Trafford's pleadings. Channing granted her permission to join him at the railroad town. She was very poor. Generally she was considerate and self-sacrificing. Now she rlamored, and would not be quieted until a mortgage was raised on the wretched little house that was all in the world her mother and crippled sister owned. She bought her ticket with the money, and ten days after the receipt of Channing's letter she was at the meeting-place-alone.

She spent a day and two nights in the mean little depot hotel, very nearly out of her mind with loneliness, fright, and at last an acknowledged distrust. Then Channing's mother arrived, and an officer met them with an ambulance. Channing was dying of a fever, the mother told her. The doctor had telegraphed for her, without her son's knowledge, the day after the girl had left the village. Then Anna reproached herself for her suspicions with unreasoning bitterness.

The drive to the post took two days. It was a horrible experience for the officer. The road stretched on, on, or, across desert and bad lands, where even the greasewood and mesquite was purned by the terrible sun. The old woman sank from the dust and the heat into an almost senseless state. The girl, being young and strong and ilive, fought with the strangling dust. gasped, twisted her small hands, and bit her lips in a perfectly silent struggle. Sometimes, as the lieutenant sat opposite them, he wished that they could cry or make a sound.

The beautiful daughter of Col. Ross was standing by Channing's bed alone. when the doctor led the mother and her young companion in Thelieutenanthad been dead 20 minutes. The dark-eyed woman did not turn, she had forgotten everything in all the world, save only Channing's face. When the southern girl dropped down at the bedside and screamed for her husband, she started. "Is the poor thing crazy?" she asked. dully, of Mrs. Channing.

"No. But she was not married to him. Only she was to have been married at Santa Maria, two or three days ago; I forget when. He sent for her." "That can't be true, because I am his

"Indeed, it is true. Aren't you his mother?" She put her arm tenderly about the bent shoulders. "I thought you were. You look like him. He and I were married last night at midnight. when they told us he was going to die." "Anna' Come away, Anna! You've daughter was dead But until Channing was buried in the gravey and on the hill, where the coyotes dug up the mounds at night, and the prairie dogs barked shrilly, and the snakes glided along the dry, bake I earth into their holes-until he was bar ed there the two women staved by her. Their trust in the dead man ne er i faltered. Watching over his mother they sat in the room where he had died, and has tened to the fluid of the soldiers' feet as they marched by outside, following the young officer's flag-covered coffin Then there was a long, long selence They were wide apart-the wife with her beautiful head in her hands; the gul, looking straight at the wall; the old woman muttering and serviching at her cown with her crooked fingers.

At last came the sound of a far-off solles of musketry. The glil jumped un "What's that?"

"The firing over his grave" In a moment it eame again. The girl stood swaving. The wife sat with her head still bowed. It was no new sound.

A pause-then the last volley. The Guild Entertainment-6ther Local Matters-Something New in Advertising-A Master Who Did Not Know His Dog.

From a Special Correspondent.

-Thei Ilustrations to Austin Dobson's "Vignettes In Rhyme," which were to have formed a feature of the Guild entertainment to be given at the home of W. P. Thompson, next Tuesday evening. have been abandoned because of unavoidable circumstances, and a New England supper will be served instead. This will be served under the direction of Mrs. S. L. Casey and Miss Florence Bacon, who will distribute to the assembled guests, roast pig, pork and beaus, pumpkin pie and such other dainties as have for many years been affected by the Pilgrim Fathers and their descendants who have always known a good thing when they have seen it, unless perhaps we except the Quakers. The supper will be preceded by the performance of Bluebeard by children. The price of admission, including supper, will be fifty cents. All are cordially invited.

-Mrs. Percy Wisner will entertain the Ladies' Whist Club next Thursday after-

-The writer noticed an advertisement of a patent medicine the other day. It was very much like other such advertisements, in that it professed to cure every known disease and a few that aren't: but it had after it, by way of postscript, the following somewhat -emigmatic line, "Best effects produced in Europe." She has been wondering ever since whether that meant that the consumer should take a trip abroad in order to derive the full benefit of this wouderful cure all, and whether he would have to repeat this trip at every dose or remain in Europe until the bottle had been emptied. The medicine itself was not expensive, only a dollar, but it seems as though it might be like one of those bills that are not so much in themselves but in which the extras count up. Perhaps this is only the thin edge of the wedge and soon we shall read of some remedy costing perhaps a quarter advertised in some such way as this. "Full effect can only be obtained in a sealskin sack." This, if accompanied by a picture of a female in a much be-plumed hat, a sozodont smile, and an up-to-date seal skin coat, will prove most attractive to the gentler sex. This id-a may open a wide field to the imaginative and inteligent advertiser.

-There was an anecdore in one of the newspap is, the other day, of a man and a fox terrier, in which the man was represented as being asronished by the behavior of the dog. Now the writer has her opinion of anyone who could live in daily companionship with a canine of this breed and be surprised at anything it did. A tox terrier is among dogs what a particularly mischievous and troublesome boy is among his kind. One moment, he may be just the nicest little dog you ever saw, gentle and resport al to his elders and betters, and the next be will come home with a neighbor's chicken, which shows signs of wear, and tear or kill his pet cat, or shake up his favorite dog, and then he will come meekly into the house, wag his little tail, jump up into the most comfortable chair in the room and look at you with such an innocent Sunday School sort of an expression that you wonder if that is really the same animal with which you were so righteously indignant, but a short time ago. No: either that man's dog was not the real thing or he had not owned him long.

THE BENEDICTS' HOP.

The Attendance Not Large-Threatenening Weather Kept the 0id Folks at

The attendance at the benedicts' hop of the Bachelors' Social Club at the Assembly Rooms, last evening, was very light, owing doubtless to the threatening condition of the weather. About twenty couples were present among them being the following benedicts and their wives: H. M. Hayes, F. M. Madden, C. B. Buckley, W. F. Royce, Dr. M. C. Ashley, A. L. Decker.

Those present from out of town were Mr. Thorn and Ed. Beakes, of New York, and Miss Emma Beakes, of Cornwall.

Where Fine Sand is Obtained.

The sand used in laying the mosaic tile in the new bank building on North street, was obtained from S. J. Boyd, of near Otisville. It is white sand and of even size, sharp and free from loam, and such as cannot be found in this locality except near Otisville.

The sand used in building Middletown's first water works was obtained from Mr. Boyd's sand bank, as was also that used in building the dam at Monhagen Lake. The sand used in the construction of the new Erie depot was also brought from Otisville.

Represent Many Thousand Dollars' Worth of Trade.

The tickets used by the Advertising Journal Company during the year 1896. the number of which was 424.595, represent sales to the amount of $42,459.-50, as a ticket is taken for each ten cents worth of goods purchased. Of this the merchants using the tickets paid the company one-half cent each or $2,122,97. It was doubtless money well invested as the use of these tickets brings trade that would not otherwise be secured and it is eash trade at that.
